

PRESIDENT OF CHURCH WOMEN IS RE-ELECTED

Mrs. Herbert H. Schmidt, Gettysburg R. 3, was re-elected president of the Gettysburg Council of Church Women, Friday afternoon, at the annual May Fellowship luncheon meeting held in the social rooms of St. James Lutheran church.

Those named to other offices included: Mrs. E. Donald Scott, Baltimore street, vice president; Mrs. Earl Shears, Gettysburg R. 3, recording secretary; Mrs. Hermie Zoller, West Middle street, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Earl Brandon, Gettysburg R. 1, treasurer.

The election was conducted by Mrs. Howard S. Fox, a past president. Mrs. E. P. Strausbaugh presented the report of the nominating committee.

Miss Longanecker Speaks

Miss Reida Longanecker, assistant to the executive secretary of the Adams County Red Cross, spoke on "Thank God for Work," the theme of the National Council of Church Women for their May fellowship meetings. She was introduced by Mrs. Ralph R. Gresh, chairman of the Christian Unity committee in charge of the program.

Miss Longanecker said that "with the beginning of the industrial revolution in the 1830s only a few occupations were open to women. Today women work in all but nine of the 451 classified occupations." She described what would happen in Gettysburg if all women who work here were to go on vacation, at the same time, for one month.

She added that in addition to those who work for wages, hundreds of women in the community devote many hours of volunteer work to churches, the YWCA, Red Cross, Girl Scouts and other organizations. She urged the women to adopt a "do something attitude" about a number of projects needed in the community.

Treasurer Reports

A $5 donation was voted for the state organization to be used for migrant work. A subscription to "Church Woman" in the name of the president was authorized. The group voted to pay the registration.

PRESENT GIFT TO DR. WENTZ

Dr. A. R. Wentz, president of the local Lutheran Theological seminary, was presented with a typewriter at the annual luncheon held at the seminary by the Alumni Association Thursday in connection with seminary week.

The typewriter was inscribed with "old prescripts never die — they simply type away." Doctor Wentz, in announcing his resignation some time ago as president of the seminary, said one of the reasons for his retirement was his desire to devote more time to writing.

Doctor Wentz thanked the alumni for their support in a "farewell address" and then introduced his successor, Dr. Harry F. Baughman.

The Rev. Roy L. Sloop, Newport News, Va., was re-elected president of the alumni association. The Rev. Ralph L. Bergstresser, Highspire, was named vice president; the Rev. Hugo Swenson, Harrisburg, secretary, and the Rev. Roderick N. Sent, Stoystown, treasurer.

CLAIMS FAULTY CONSTRUCTION BREAKING ROADS

Faulty construction of highways, and not trucks which use them, is responsible for the breaking up of roads, Thomas F. Robertson, community relations director of the Pennsylvania Motor Truck association, told members of the CHM club of the C. H. Musselman company Friday night, at a meeting of the club held in the cafeteria of the Biglerville plant. J. Willis Beidler, president, presided, and R. S. Hackman was in charge of the program.

"Mother Earth can support the weight," Robertson said. "It is not the weight, it is because the highway was not properly laid that it breaks up." He said highways of proper construction could carry heavy loads if laid when the ground is dry. Robertson declared that charges of subsidy, road damage and unsafe operation are designed to divert public opinion from the "indispensable service provided by trucks in making possible mass distribution."

Seek Modified Laws

He said the PMTA is working for a modification of state laws regulating truck loads which have not been changed since 1929.

"Truck transportation's tremendous expansion in the past ten years will alleviate some of the strain that defense mobilization is placing on our mass distribution system, but correction of unreasonably restrictive motor truck laws in Pennsylvania and elsewhere is essential if a serious transportation crisis is to be averted," he said.

"Here in Pennsylvania the situation can be greatly eased without increasing the size or maximum gross weight of trucks, simply by recognizing modern vehicle types and permitting them to carry the weights for which they were engineered, entirely within the existing 20,000 pound axle limitation."

Helps Distribution

"The effects of America's great free enterprise system of mass production were not fully felt until truck transportation made possible the development of mass distribution."

General and Mrs. Nevins

General Arthur S. Nevins, who is managing General Dwight D. Eisenhower's farm near Gettysburg during the latter's absence in Europe, is not only a farmer himself by early training, but is a native of Adams county. The county of his birth, however, is Adams county, Ill.

General Nevins was born on a farm near Quincy, Ill., the county seat of Adams county, and lived on the farm until he entered the University of Illinois. He is a graduate of the latter school.

The general and Mrs. Nevins like Adams county, Pennsylvania, they like Gettysburg, and they are particularly high in their praise of the Eisenhower farm, which the general purchased several months ago from Allan Redding. It is on the Water Works road, adjoining a part of the Gettysburg battlefield.

Enjoys Quiet, Sunsets

"It is wonderful after living in an apartment in New York city," says Mrs. Nevins. "So quiet, and the sunsets over the mountains are beautiful."

Educated in the public schools of Chambersburg, Dr. Asper continued his education at the University of Maryland where he took his M.D. degree in 1903. He began the practice of medicine and surgery in Chambersburg in 1904. During the next 14 years he built up a large practice.

MacArthur Pushes His Fight Against Appeasement In Asia

Washington, May 5 (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur continued today his blistering offensive against Truman administration plans to fight what he calls an "appeasement" war in Asia.

Chief targets of the 71-year-old deposed Pacific commander were President Truman and Secretary of Defense George C. Marshall — like MacArthur a five-star general of the army.

Secretary of State Acheson, who has been accused as an "appeaser" by some of MacArthur's congressional supporters, was not included. The general yesterday absolved Acheson of any connection with his ouster by President Truman.

And Senator Fulbright (D-Ark.) went so far as to observe in Senate Armed Service and Foreign Relations committee hearings — where MacArthur resumed testimony today — that Acheson argued against the President's decision.

Fulbright asked if it would surprise the general "that the Secretary of State, in fact, opposed your recall vigorously at the highest level."

"In this particular case," MacArthur replied, "I want to say I have never met the Secretary of State. I have never attributed to him in the slightest degree the decision of the President to replace me."

However, the former Pacific commander made it plain that he is giving no quarter to Mr. Truman and Marshall in his fight for authority for his successor, Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, to push the war harder against the Chinese Communists. MacArthur said Ridgway shares his views on that point.

MacArthur said he was fired on "one individual's judgment" — obviously the President's — despite a Pentagon statement that the Joint Chiefs of Staff and their chairman, Gen. Omar N. Bradley, concurred in the action.

Lee-Meade Inn Is "Checked" By Agents

Liquor control board agents, assisted by state police of the Gettysburg substation, conducted a "check" on the Lee-Meade inn at 1 o'clock this morning.

The check, authorities said, was made to determine whether intoxicating beverages was being sold to minors.

Petal Fall Spray For Cherries Called

Use of two pounds of Craig 341B or two pounds of Ferbam per 100 gallons of spray was recommended today by County Agent M. T. Hartman as the petal fall spray for cherries.

In sour cherry spray information letter No. 3, sent to all growers, the county agent noted that leaf spot spores are mature and ready to infect the unfolded leaves during wet weather unless the leaves are protected by a spray.

HANSON SPEAKS AT MEMORIAL SERVICES MAY 26

Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of Gettysburg college, will be the speaker May 26 at the annual Memorial exercises at the Great Conewago Presbyterian church cemetery, Hunterstown.

Harry G. Deatrick, chairman of the committee, announced plans for the affair at a meeting of Gettysburg Camp No. 112, Sons of Union Veterans, Friday evening at the GAR post rooms on East Middle street.

The Rev. Willis R. Doyle, pastor of the local Episcopal church and commander of the SUV camp, will read Lincoln's Gettysburg address at the Hunterstown exercises and State Senator Donald P. McPherson, Jr., will be master of ceremonies.

The usual parade by the Gettysburg high school band and the school children from Hunterstown to the cemetery will precede the exercises. Members of the SUV Reserve Firing squad will fire the volleys over the graves and read the GAR ritual.

Vote Two Donations

David A. Tawney reported that the SUV uniformed firing squad is scheduled to participate in the Hunterstown and Mt. Joy Memorial exercises.

Commander Doyle presided at the meeting. Two $2 donations were made to the Salvation Army and to the proposed information center to be set up by the Retail Merchants Association on Lincoln Square.

The 71st annual encampment of the Pennsylvania Department of the SUV and GAR-allied organizations will be held June 19 and 20 at Altoona. Secretary Paul Snyder reported.

Details on progress of the Memorial Day committee were presented by Chairman T. J. Winebrenner, who said that a meeting of the committee will be held next week. "The parade committee headed by Raymond Strohm has done excellent work in inviting groups to participate in the Memorial Day parade," Chairman Winebrenner said, adding that the local national guard unit, Letterkenny troops and equipment and a number of bands and organizations have already been scheduled for the parade.

Ushers included Miss Mildred Walters, Levona Black, Catherine Crum, Nadine Group, Betty Hykes, Louise McDannell, Thelma Noel, and Nadine Tuckey.

Approximately 200 students took part in the band and various choruses. Numbers were presented by the junior chorus, the ninth grade chorus, the senior chorus, a girls' chorus, a boys' chorus, the junior high school band and the senior high school band.

Tomato Plants To Be Distributed

The C. H. Musselman company announced today that it will begin distribution of its home-grown tomato plants to tomato growers next Tuesday. Plants for York county growers will be available at the Red Lion receiving station.

Musselman plants will be sold to growers at $5 per thousand, the announcement said. Due to increased labor rates, the cost of planting will be $5 per hour and spraying charges will be $6.50 per acre.

Growers are being urged to consider early their labor needs for harvesting the crop, and to communicate with the Pennsylvania Employment Service office.

According to the Musselman company, prices for tomatoes this fall cannot be determined until definite information is received from Washington, but it is predicted that they will be higher than last year.

Allied Tank-Infantry Units Are "On The Hunt" For Reds As Foe's Offensive Shrinks

Tokyo, May 5 (AP)—United Nations tank-infantry columns clanked into the Korean no-man's-land on the hunt for withdrawing Red forces.

"This isn't a general advance," said a spokesman at U. S. Eighth Army headquarters, "but we're sparing for an opening."

The armored columns struck ahead on the western front for the fourth consecutive day.

The Reds had pulled back on the central front. They withdrew on a smaller scale on the western front.

The Red spring drive that began April 22 had wiled in its first stage. Now the United Nations army was taking up slack in the lines.

Except for the British Gloucestershire battalion which was badly mauled, no Allied units suffered severely in the Red drive that was stopped just short of Seoul.

Heavy Red Losses

The Chinese and Red Korean forces suffered heavily, however.

Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet, Eighth Army commander, estimated the number of Red casualties in the bogged spring drive at about 70,000. A daily compilation of United Nations air and ground forces communications tolls placed the enemy dead and wounded at around 50,000.

Eighth Army staff officers reported heavy Red troop movements in rear areas.

Field reports Saturday listed 21,000 men and 500 horses north of Chunchon on the central front.

Presence of mine fields on the western front north of Seoul also indicated the Reds were planning another drive.

One American officer said the Chinese always lay "acres of mine fields" to screen an area in which they are massing for attack.

Await New Assault

AP Correspondent Robert Eunson at Eighth Army headquarters reported the general belief is that the next Red move won't come immediately. When it does, army sources said, it will be in the form of pressure on Seoul.

Eunson said most military men believe the Reds will need more armor than they have displayed up to the present to sweep around behind U.N. forces defending Seoul.

Chinese Reds offered no fight as the United Nations line was pushed forward northeast of Seoul in the peninsula's mountainous heart, some Red forces still were withdrawing north of Chunchon out of range of Allied artillery.

It was on this front, 45 miles northeast of Seoul, that the Reds have been expected to open the second round after losing the first round, aimed primarily at Seoul itself.

Negligible Resistance

Strong U. N. patrols ranged north into a no-man's-land searching for Reds.

They found about 7,000 northwest of Seoul Friday and fought them until nightfall. Then the patrols withdrew.

Allied tanks rumbled the 11 miles north of Seoul into the highway junction of Uijongbu against negligible resistance. Apparently the Allies could have Uijongbu if they wanted it. The tanks pulled back after looking around.

North of Kapyong, 32 miles northeast of Seoul, B-26 light bombers attacked a concentration of Reds. But north of Chunchon, 13 miles farther northeast, a Red column which included 500 horses was spotted in a withdrawal.

TWO COLLISIONS WITHIN AN HOUR FRIDAY NIGHT

An automobile owned and operated by Charles M. Grace, 24, of Stanford, Calif., collided with the car of Raymond E. Weaver, 43, of 631 South Washington street, at 8:45 o'clock Friday night on the Emmitsburg road nine miles south of Gettysburg, according to state police of the Gettysburg substation.

Police said Grace was traveling north and attempted to pass a truck when he saw Weaver's car, traveling south, coming toward him. He applied his brakes and his car skidded off the west side of the highway, posing into a bank. The rear of the car skidded and struck the left front of Weaver's automobile, police said. The latter had swerved to the right side of the road in an attempt to avoid the collision.

Mrs. Weaver and their son, Dennis, 7, were treated by Dr. John J. Knox for minor injuries.

Truck Strikes Car

A tractor-trailer owned by the Kealy Moving and Truck company, of Cleveland, Ohio, and operated by Leroy Stein, 29, of South Euclid, Ohio, ran into the rear of an automobile operated by Francis A. Becker, 42, 112 Maple avenue, Hanover, at 7:50 o'clock Friday night at Cross Keys, state police said. Becker was the last of several cars which, traveling north on the Hanover-Cross Keys road, had stopped for the stop sign at the intersection with the Lincoln highway. No one was injured. Damage to the Becker car was estimated at $50. There was no damage to the tractor.

Stein was convicted of a charge of following too close, at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Gerald Orndorff, New Oxford. He paid a fine of $10 and costs.

8:50 a.m. All members of the DAR are urged to attend the program.

Enroll Two Members
Friday's meeting opened with Miss Alice Black presiding. Two new members were accepted, Miss June Bigham, Biglerville, and Miss Amy Ross, Gettysburg. Mrs. Daniel Jacobs, Johnstown, a former member of the local unit, was introduced as a visitor. Mrs. Robert Willis reported that the card party held for the Children of the American Revolution was a success.

Mrs. Ralph E. Bell urged attendance at the Central District meeting to be held at the Nittany Lion Inn, State College, on June 20. Reservations must be made by June 16, she said.

Mrs. Charles Drum announced that the next meeting will be held June 1 at 2:30 p.m. in the form of a garden party at her home. State officers are being invited to the session, she added.

Regent Receives Gift
Regent-elect Mrs. Lefever presented a past regent's bar pin to Miss Alice Black, retiring regent, and then took over the duties of regent. Both Miss Black and Mrs. Lefever paid tribute to the work done by the various committees during the year.

Other officers who assumed their new duties Friday are: Vice regent, Mrs. George Thrush, Jr.; second vice regent, Miss Elsie Elsenhart; chaplain, Mrs. Kerr Lott; recording secretary, Mrs. Rex Rice; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Kermit Herter; treasurer, Mrs. Harold Reuning; registrar, Mrs. Edgar Deardoff; historian, Mrs. C. H. Hett; and pres. relations, Mrs. L. S. Long.

The new officers were installed by the retiring chaplain, Mrs. S. F. Snyder. The new regent, Mrs. Lefever, was praised for her 30 years of service to the DAR during which she served in various offices and as a chairman or member of various committees.

Report on Congress
Mrs. Thrush reported on the Continental Congress held by the national DAR at Washington in April. Mrs. Thrush, Mrs. Lefever and Miss Black represented the local DAR at the sessions of the congress.

The various Pennsylvania chapters of the DAR presented the state regent with a $900 "money corsage" at the national meeting. The money will be used for the chapel or bell tower at Valley Forge. Mrs. Thrush said.

When it was learned that Mrs. MacArthur was a member of the DAR, an invitation was sent to Tokyo for her and her husband to attend the convention, Mrs. Thrush said. Later it was confirmed that the famed soldier, his wife and son would attend.

The convention paused to listen to General MacArthur's address to Congress. While waiting for the speech to begin $3,000 was donated by various chapters as a MacArthur Memorial for the bell tower at Valley Forge. After the talk another $2,000 was added to the fund.

Gen. Nevins

likes it, but it is vastly different from the days of his youth in Illinois.

"Everything was done with horses when I was a boy," he says. "We had Holstein cattle, but we milked them by hand. However, we raised the same crops, including lots of corn. Where I was brought up is a hog country, and we needed the corn," he says.

General Nevins entered the army during World War I and stayed in for 30 years. He was a captain in the 57th infantry, 15th division, in that conflict, joining as a second lieutenant when General Eisenhower was a captain.

Served in Europe
In World War II General Nevins served four and a half years in the European theater. He landed at Oran as colonel and deputy chief of staff of the Second Army corps. He was senior army planner of the Sicilian campaign and General Alexander's operations officer in Sicily.

Following the Sicilian campaign, General Nevins was ordered to England as head of the plans and operations section of SHAEP, under General Eisenhower. After the war in Europe he went to Germany, where he was assistant chief of staff for operations in Frankfurt. Prior to World War II General Nevins had served on the general staff in Washington. He retired from the army in the fall of 1946.

Wrote Book Footnotes
Following his retirement, at the request of General Eisenhower, he wrote the footnotes and checked for factual details for Gen. Eisenhower's book, "Crusade in Europe." For the past two years, before coming to Gettysburg, he had been military analyst for the Council on Foreign Relations.

Mrs. Nevins is the former Ann Stacy of Springfield, Ill. She and General Nevins were married in 1917 and since their marriage she has accompanied her husband on his army assignments everywhere except to Europe. She remained in Washington during World War II. They have two children, Mary Ann Nevins, a student at Columbia university, New York city, and a son, who will graduate from the University of Michigan in June. He was a sergeant in World War II.

General Nevins has a famous brother, Allan Nevins, professor of American history at Columbia, and two-time Pulitzer prize winner. He is the author, among other books, of "Ordeal of the Union" and "The Emergence of Lincoln."

College Students Barred From Dorm

Newark, Del., May 5 (AP)—Unless someone talks—and talks soon—104 men students at the University of Delaware aren't getting back into Harter Hall dormitory.

A university official says that Dean of Men J. Fenton Daugherty is intent on keeping the students out of the dorm until someone confesses setting off a firecracker display Thursday night.

"The students were evicted yesterday when an ultimatum set by the dean expired without anyone admitting the act. The students spent the night in parked autos, tents, lodging houses and the living rooms of nine campus fraternity houses.

"We must make the students realize their responsibility to themselves, to one another and to the community," Dean Daugherty said, adding fireworks are illegal in Delaware.

SAYS RESERVE CLAUSE ILLEGAL

New York, May 5 (AP)—The disputed reserve clause in baseball may be examined from A to Z in Congress.

Rep. Emmanuel Celler (D.) of Brooklyn, believes the game "is now operating in violation of the anti-trust laws (and) we should not permit matters to drift any longer."

Celler expressed his views in an interview yesterday. He is chairman of the House Judiciary subcommittee on monopoly.

"Baseball is one of the finest things in American life," he said. "But it is in danger. Legal opinion in the past was that baseball was not in commerce, but the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals held that it was. There is no question that trading of players like pawns on a chessboard is in violation of present anti-trust laws. If baseball is illegal then we must prosecute the owners or change the law."

Celler said it is possible for his committee to draft a bill exempting the game from provisions of the anti-trust laws.

Under the reserve clause, which came into prominence two years ago with the Danny Gardella case, players must negotiate new contracts only with the club that originally signed them, unless they are traded or sold. If a player refuses to sign a new contract, his only recourse is to quit the game since he cannot play with any other club in organized ball.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, May 5 (AP)—As a sports event, the Kentucky Derby is as crazy as the people who call it a sports event. It's a one-day madhouse and two minutes of first-class racing at what is otherwise a quaint, antiquated small-time track. . . . You go to Louisville a week in advance and spend more money than you can afford. You stay up too late at night but drag yourself out at dawn to see the workouts. You spend endless hours collecting misinformation and indulging in fruitless speculation (our 1-2-3 sections, for no good reason, are Big Stretch, Battle Morn and Mameluke). . . . On derby day you buck the crowds in the hotel, let yourself be carried along with the crowd to Churchill Downs and you fight the mob at the track. . . . If you want to go anywhere around the huge rambling stands you have to have special credentials so you spend the day shuffling tickets. . . . You try to renew acquaintances with folks you only see at the derby and find they've either been lost in the mob or are silently trying to recover from derby eve. . . . You wander around gawking at the drunks falling into the flower beds and the startling costumes of the orchid-decked feminine spectators and find they've gawking at you, too. . . . There's no sense to it and very little sport. . . . But, gosh, wouldn't you like to be there today?

SPORTSMENTION

Although Notre Dame's football record last fall was nothing to talk about, Ticket Manager Bob Cahill reports fans have shown so much interest this year that he had to open the season ticket sale May 1, the earliest date on record. . . . Last time he went to the county to train was for the Joe Louis fight last summer. . . . In case you haven't heard, Mickey Mantle, the sensational Yankee rookie, was named for Mickey Cochrane — whose square name is Gordon.

Hagerstown's Reds, tied for the league lead with the Lancaster Red Roses, won the nightmarish game, 14 to 9, over Allentown. The Reds tallied seven times in the fourth inning to sew up the contest.

Keeping pace with Hagerstown, Lancaster's Bill Peters tossed a five-hitter to lead the Red Roses to an 8 to 3 triumph over York.

Sunbury, in a triple tie for first yesterday, fell back a game to second place as Wilmington's Blue Roses clubbed three Giants' pitchers for 13 hits, including two homers, for a 13 to 1 victory. Johnny Walz gave up only four hits.

Harrisburg's Senators pulled themselves partially out of the cellar—going into a tie for seventh with Salisbury—by out-slugging the Athletics 15-8. All told, there were 27 hits—15 by Harrisburg. Salisbury used four pitchers.

Tonight's games: Hagerstown at Sunbury, York at Harrisburg, Wilmington, at Lancaster and Salisbury at Allentown.

WARRIORS DRUB DELONE 19-6 TO TAKE 4TH GAME

The Gettysburg high school baseball team showed its best hitting form of the season Friday as it blatted out a 19-6 victory over Delone Catholic at McSherrystown. It was the fourth victory in seven games for the Warriors.

Coach Howard Shoemaker's team pounded out 16 hits, Bupp leading the attack with four singles in five trips to the plate.

Dick Miller set down the Squires with five hits, three of which came in the final inning when the game was safely tucked away. He whiffed eight and walked three.

Gettysburg pushed over four runs in the first inning on a walk by Signor, single by Bupp, double by Singley, an error and a single by Ford.

Eight more runs came in the third inning on safeties by Little, Miller, Rohrbaugh, Signor and Bupp, and walks to Singley, Heyser and Ford, and an error.

Walks to Greenholt and Funk and a double by T. Smith gave Delone a pair of tallies in the last of the third.

A triple by Heyser and an error was good for a Warrior run in the fourth and singles by Bupp, Singley and Little added two more in the fifth. The locals ended their scoring with four runs in the sixth through walks to Signor and Little and hits by Bupp, Bender, Bream and Miller.

Next Tuesday the Warriors play at Chambersburg and Friday face Shippensburg here in South Penn league games.

LOPAT LEADS YANKEES INTO TOP POSITION

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Eddie Lopat, the New York Yankees "hot weather pitcher" is very warm for May. With a 4-0 record, the chunky southpaw is well on the way to his first 20-in season.

He used to think he couldn't win until the June sun hit 90. Professor Casey Stengel gave him a lesson in psychology.

"Casey proved it was all in my mind," said Lopat. "Just a lot of bunk."

Thanks to Lopat's runaway start, the Yanks have edged into first place earlier than usual. Last year it took them until May 16.

Kellner Beats Tribe

Alex Kellner, who has won two of Philadelphia's three victories, knocked Cleveland into third place with a six-hit job, 3-1.

All three Philadelphia runs came off Early Wynn, going the route for the fourth time.

Chico Carrasquel's double in the 11th inning gave Chicago a 6-5 edge over Washington, knocking the Senators out of the American league lead. Mary Robblatt was the winner and Joe Haynes the loser.

Hal Newhouse finally got into the win column as Detroit jolted the Boston Red Sox, 8-4. Two of the five Sox hits were homers by Bobby Doerr and Vern Stephens.

Big Guns for Tigers

Dick Kryhoski and Jerry Friddy were the big Tiger guns. Kryhoski had three doubles and a single and Friddy a double and a single. Each drove in three runs.

While the Red Sox continued to have their troubles on the road, the Boston Braves thrive on their home stand. With Vern Bickford winning his fourth on a five-hitter, the Braves slipped back into first place in the National, downing Chicago, 9-3.

Sal Maglie threw a one-hitter at Pittsburgh, 5-1, as the New York Giants backed him up with homers by Hank Thompson, Bobby Thompson, Monte Irvin and Spider Jorgensen.

The hit was a triple by leadoff

The IBC will run 35 Friday shows in New York at Madison Square Garden or St. Nicholas arena. There will be 35 Wednesday fights split among New York's St. Nicholas arena, the Chicago Stadium, Detroit Olympia and the St. Louis arena.

Pitcher Russ Meyer won his own game with a two-run single in the Phillies' 6-4 decision over the St. Louis Cards. Howie Pollet, who held out all during spring training, was knocked out in a four-run first inning. It was his first start.

Cincinnati scattered 14 Brooklyn hits for a 5-4 win with some shut-out relief work by Frank Smith. The towering righthander came to the relief of Howie Fox in the fifth,

NO OUTSTANDING FAVORITE YET ON DERBY LIST

By JOHN CHANDLER

Louisville, Ky., May 5 (AP)—The Kentucky derby, a $100,000 scramble for racing's greatest prize, will be staged for the 77th time at Churchill Downs and before the day is out a new name will be painted on the historic old structure.

With 23 horses entered for the race, and probably 19 or 20 parading to the post for the mile and one-quarter classic, everything shapes up into a marvelous mass of turf confusion.

There is no outstanding favorite. So your guess is as good as the next as to which of the three-year-olds will be made the public choice. Post time is 4:30 p.m., EST, and it probably will be just then when everyone knows the favorite.

Opinions Waver

Right now, opinion is wavering between Battle Morn, the bay filly from the Cain Hov stable of Harry F. Guggenheim, and the entry of Mameluke and Counterpoint, owned by Cornelius Vanderbilt (Sonny) Whitney.

Many racing veterans liked Battle Morn at around 4 to 1, with the Whitney pair at 5 to 1. However, the track handicapper figured Mameluke and Counterpoint would be favored at 3 to 1, with Battle Morn, 4-1. It seemed the choice fluctuates on whether you think Eddie Arcaro makes the difference in being Battle Morn's jockey, or whether the customer prefers a two-for-one chance on the two Whitney colts.

It might be well to check the records, however, when discussing such come-from-behind horses as Battle Morn, Mameluke and Timely Reward. In the eight derbies containing 18 or more horses, none ever came from behind to win in the field.

Others Look Good

Many others in the mammoth near-record field are capable of throwing a lot of people in the predicted crowd of 100,000 for a loss.

"How about Repetition?" say some of the easterners who watched him win four straight stakes, his only starts this year. The people who have seen Ruhe, the Arkansas derby champ and victor in the Blue Grass stakes second division, like his chances.

Ruhe, owned by Mrs. Emil Denemark, is one of four geldings in the race. The others are colts. In addition, the Brown Hotel stable duo of The Gink and Snuzzle both are geldings as is Hall of Fame, one of the two Greenree stable horses. Big Stretch makes up the other half of the Greentree threat.

Detroit, May 5 (AP)—The newest slash in the passenger car makers' steel didn't surprise them very much. They have been expecting it.

Under the newest order from the National Production Authority steel for passenger car and station wagon production will be reduced another five per cent June 1. That will mean the car makers may not use more than 75 per cent of the volume of steel they used in the first six months of 1950.

Explains A Trend

Just why the hydraulic valve lifter, used for a number of years on several high priced cars, should now come into more general use puzzles all but those who also take note of the fact that there is more general use of overhead valve engines. It is this type of valve arrangement which more clearly demands the zero tappet clearance which these hydraulic lifters maintain. Changes in tappet clearance are the result of many complex variables and often are unpredictable, according to careful studies. This is not only because of a wide variety in engine operation, but also because of the things that happen to engines as they are in use. For instance, after going down a long grade with the throttle closed the engine may drop in temperature as much as 30 degrees. Carbon deposits, exhaust back pressure, timing, gas mixture and the clearance between the valve stems and their guides are among the factors which effect tappet clearance. Hydraulic lifters, when not afflicted with their own special ailments, successfully overcome these conditions, and maintain that zero clearance which helps the engine behave itself.

Keep Them In Mind

If the steering gear is to be checked for accuracy always disconnect the drag link, otherwise the drag of the wheels and the complete steering assembly will be included.

Sometimes spark plug fouling is directly due to oxidized breaker points. The effect of this is to cut down the high tension output. The plugs then just do not fire well enough and foul as a consequence.

Twenty years have brought more changes in automobiles than appear on the surface. And the facts are not without their surprises. According to an interesting survey made by the trade publication, Motor, the average 1950 model weighs more than its 1930 predecessor. Weight was 3,400 for last year's models, 2,800 for the 1930 jobs. This about reverses popular conceptions of the trend. There is no mystery about the boost in average horsepower over the 20-year span, but while hp has gone up from 54 to 113 the engine really hasn't become smaller. Average displacement in 1930 was 270 cubic inches while last year the figure stood at 269. It was 260 back in 1939, 250 in 1940. Compression ratio has gone up steadily in keeping with octane rating of gasoline.

Mechanic Joe Speaking

"Something to watch out for when checking into the causes of abnormal wear on tire treads is avoiding the sort of diagnosis that comes too easily. Jones was observing a bad flat spot on one of his tires. His neighbor came right up with the decision that this was due to lack of wheel and tire balance. Without further ado the car was driven to a shop, the tire replaced with a new one and the wheel and tire balanced. That seemed entirely logical, yet both men had read the wrong conclusion into the old tire's spotty appearance. Further trouble with the new tire proved that the brake for the particular wheel was quite erratic, and that every now and again it locked."

More Than Noise

When the optimistic friend tells you that he can cure that water pump noise by putting a little emulsifying oil rust inhibitor into the cooling system his plan is always worth a try, but don't be unduly disappointed if the scheme fails to silence the pump. Something more serious than a little binding of pump parts may be the trouble. The impeller itself may be loose, for example. Or the impeller may be sheared off or broken. Emulsifying oil rust inhibitor may be effective in checking a too hard pump seal or rust in the bearing, but it naturally won't have any effect on the looseness of a pump shaft pulley or excessive end play.

One of the important precautions to take when checking the level of lubricant in an automatic transmission is to make sure no dirt or lint gets into the system. Cleanliness is essential here.

If you are ever stuck in mud, sand or snow remember that often you can get out by having someone rock the car up and down by jumping on the rear bumper. This provides extra traction.

Borrowing Some Trouble

Apparently some people who read these comments on our cars do not take me seriously. At least that's what I infer from a recent letter telling me about difficulty keeping breaker points from pitting. This owner says that in spite of everything the points get into such condition and prevent the engine from starting normally until he replaces them.

I asked him what he was doing to check the pitting and the answer was that he was trying to file off the "hills."

You have perhaps guessed that while pitting is natural and doesn't cut down the efficiency of the points it does throw them off if an attempt is made to smooth them. They then do not meet as before, striking so as to have little contact. Then the starting trouble begins, and there's nothing to do but install new points.

Low, Second Or High?

If the car slips out of gear be sure you tell your mechanic what gear is giving the trouble. It will make a difference with his diagnosis. There are more possible causes for slipping out of low and second than out of high. If the car drops back to neutral from high, for instance, there may be misalignment between the transmission and the engine. This doesn't apply to the lower gears.

I don't know whether the tire industry itself fully appreciates this fact but one thing that retards more general acceptance of premium tires is the difficulty of keeping front ends in alignment. Whenever a motorist today considers the advisability of making a greater original investment in a tire he is likely to remind himself that if the front wheels get out of line the treads of the better tires will wear off as quickly as those of a cheaper variety. There is no certainty about front-end alignment. It is easily knocked off balance. This condition is so general many owners buy cheaper grades of tires and figure they will have to change more often, or recap.

Q. I have been having trouble keeping the battery up to par and wonder if the directional signals on the car are the cause of this. How much current do they use? H. N. B.

Q. There's a decided vibration in my car at higher speeds. I notice it even when the car is rolling out of gear. Wm. J. G.

A. This may be due to a badly unbalanced tire and wheel or to a whipping propeller shaft. The latter would be the result of worn universal joints.

Q. I am doing some work on batteries and should like to know what

A. Look for loose U-bolts on the rear springs.

Q. My car has an annoying tendency to pull to the left until it has run about three miles. Then everything is normal again. I have had the front end checked over carefully, but alignment seems to be right on the button. The tires are matched, and pressures are equal. Any ideas? R. W. R.

A. That's what I'm here for. My belief is that the left front brake on this car is dragging a bit. As soon as you use the brakes this effect is overcome and there is no further leftward pull. Check for a weak brake shoe return spring or possibly some grease on the brake lining.

Q. My car has an annoying tendency to pull to the left until it has run about three miles. Then everything is normal again. I have had the front end checked over carefully, but alignment seems to be right on the button. The tires are matched, and pressures are equal. Any ideas? R. W. R.

A. That's what I'm here for. My belief is that the left front brake on this car is dragging a bit. As soon as you use the brakes this effect is overcome and there is no further leftward pull. Check for a weak brake shoe return spring or possibly some grease on the brake lining.

Q. There seems to be a little noise in the automatic transmission on my car. What do you think is wrong? H. M. N.

A. I don't know whether the tire industry itself fully appreciates this fact but one thing that retards more general acceptance of premium tires is the difficulty of keeping front ends in alignment. Whenever a motorist today considers the advisability of making a greater original investment in a tire he is likely to remind himself that if the front wheels get out of line the treads of the better tires will wear off as quickly as those of a cheaper variety. There is no certainty about front-end alignment. It is easily knocked off balance. This condition is so general many owners buy cheaper grades of tires and figure they will have to change more often, or recap.

Q. I have been having trouble keeping the battery up to par and wonder if the directional signals on the car are the cause of this. How much current do they use? H. N. B.

A. These are from 2 to 4 amperes at 6 volts. Since you do not use them continuously I would disregard them as a source of your trouble.

Q. There's a decided vibration in my car at higher speeds. I notice it even when the car is rolling out of gear. Wm. J. G.

A. This may be due to a badly unbalanced tire and wheel or to a whipping propeller shaft. The latter would be the result of worn universal joints.

A. Probably this is just the normal noise which these gears sometimes make especially when the car is slowing down and shifting is in process. Make sure there is sufficient lube in the gearbox.

Q. What would cause the engine to resist cranking even though the starter-motor is operating? I have had this happen several times. After I try again the engine cranks as it should, although I do notice that the process is a lot noisier than it used to be. A friend of mine checked the commutator of the starter but found it clean enough. I have tightened the cable from the battery. T. J. P.

A. You may find that the starter-motor is loose and thus out of line. But check the starter drive pinion gear and its shaft first.

Washington, May 5 (AP)—Economy forces in the House today pointed to a wallowing 96 per cent cut in President Truman's emergency funds as evidence that they're pushing ahead in their drive to reduce government spending.

The President's funds came under the axe yesterday when the House passed and sent to the Senate a $6,144,450,355 appropriations bill financing 27 independent federal agencies for the year starting next July 1.

The total was $693,137,110 less than Mr. Truman has asked. And $244,000,000 of that was slashed from the President's own emergency money request. The fund is given the President to meet emergency needs arising from domestic or foreign.

TRUMAN HOPES HEARINGS WILL SUPPORT HIM

Washington, May 5 (AP)—Harry Truman — tight-lipped, watchfully waiting — says he's sure the Senate hearings will prove he was right and Gen. Douglas MacArthur was wrong.

And he came pretty close Thursday to saying MacArthur told Senate investigators something that wasn't true.

The President's weekly news conference ran a poor second, in the headline count, to MacArthur's hard-punching testimony, given at the same time at the other end of town.

MacArthur said, among many other things, that the Central Intelligence Agency thought was "very little chance" last November of the Chinese Communists' entering the Korean war. (It was in November that they did enter the war.)

Asked about this, Mr. Truman said (A) the CIA didn't make any such report to him, and (B) MacArthur didn't even allow the CIA to operate in his command until recently.

Smith Urged Use

The CIA is the nation's top-level intelligence agency, Mr. Truman said its director, Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, made a special flight to Tokyo and persuaded MacArthur to make use of it.

The President said MacArthur convinced him at their Wake Island conference in October that the Chinese Reds were not going to strike. When they did strike, he said, he was more sorry than surprised. But MacArthur, he said, was very much surprised.

Getting away from the MacArthur controversy briefly, Mr. Truman said William O'Dwyer, ambassador to Mexico, still has his full confidence. The Senate Crime Investigating committee charged earlier in the week that O'Dwyer allowed big-time crime to flourish while he was mayor of New York.

Mr. Truman said he has no intention of firing O'Dwyer and that he doubted if O'Dwyer would resign. The president said O'Dwyer is a fighter like himself.

Government Ends Case Against Moran

New York, May 4 (AP)—The jury in politician James J. Moran's perjury trial has been asked to decide whether he lied to the Kefauver committee as part of a "calculated scheme deeply rooted in the monstrous alliance between crime and politics."

Moran, a long-time pal and political associate of former mayor William O'Dwyer, is the first Senate crime probe witness to be brought to trial here.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Eugene F. Roth, who outlined the issues to the federal court jury, said the government might wind up its case today.

As the trial opened yesterday, Roth told the jurors it was up to them to decide whether Moran lied to protect some one, or whether his testimony was in line with a "calculated scheme." Roth charged that Moran lied to the Kefauver committee to avoid questions that would have exposed his relationship with Louis Weber, a Brooklyn numbers racket boss.

BRITAIN OPENS ITS FESTIVAL

London, May 5 (AP)—The United Kingdom celebrated the start of the festival of Britain in the early hours Friday with a show of bright lights, revelry and 2,000 bonfires.

The fires were set off simultaneously throughout the kingdom at a broadcast signal — the sound of a massed chorus of 5,000 voices rising in song outside St. Paul's Cathedral in London.

London made a full night of it. Its celebration extended throughout the town and especially along the brilliantly lit banks of the Thames river. Every big light that London has was turned on.

Gay little river boats, that will shuttle festival visitors along the Thames between various exhibitions, skimmed back and forth. There were flags and gay lights and spouting fountains.

The festival program was opened officially Thursday in a parade of pomp and pageantry led by King George VI. He hailed it as a symbol of Britain's "abiding courage and vitality."

"This is no time for despondency," the King said. Londoners took him at his word Thursday. The exhibition sites are not scheduled to open until Friday but it made no difference to the crowds.

PREDICT SMALL CROP OF WHEAT

Kansas City, May 5 (AP)—The surviving wheat fields are calf high or taller across the southwest prairies, but crop forecasters predict slim pickings when the harvest rolls north out of Texas next month.

Ever since the federal forecast of 726,512,000 bushels was made April 10, experts in the major wheat producing states have been subtracting.

Some areas expect the worst production since the dust storms and drought of 1936, according to an Associated Press survey.

C. W. Lane, crop forecaster for Santa Fe railway, said, "Winter wheat prospects in the southwest are the poorest in many years—perhaps the worst ever considering the acreage planted."

Short Of Estimate

Lane predicted a 125,000,000 bushel crop in Kansas, which outproduces sister states and boasts on its auto license plates that it is the "wheat state." That figure is 27,000,000 bushels under the federal estimate.

H. L. Collins, federal agricultural statistician, yesterday wound up a 1,400-mile inspection trip of Kansas and said abandonment of seeded wheat acreage in the western third of the state was the heaviest in 11 years.

The voices of Lane and Collins supported A. W. Erickson, a Minneapolis, Minn., forecaster who travels the wheat belt all winter. Erickson said in early April that wheat plants were dead in 80 per cent of a 60,000 square mile area he visited.

15 YANKEES RELEASED BY CHINESE REDS

On The Western Front, Korea, May 5 (AP)—Fifteen U. S. soldiers, captured by the Communists a week ago, returned to Allied lines last night and told of being interviewed by a Chinese general.

The men said they were well treated and were liberated twice—the second time after they were accidentally recaptured.

"They treated us pretty well, especially after we were moved back from the front line troops," said a soldier from Baltimore. (Censorship prevented immediate disclosure of names of the Americans.)

"The best one of all was the Chinese general we met—he was a big chunky man and very well dressed. He didn't speak English and used an interpreter. He asked us a lot about our family lives. I guess he was the one who made the decision to let us go."

The 15 were survivors of a party of infantrymen who were trapped by the Chinese.

Blundered Back To Reds "Some of the front line Chinks pushed us around a bit," said a soldier from West Virginia. "But things were a lot better when we got behind their lines. We got the same food the Chinks did—rice and fish heads—we did all our moving at night and they kept marching us back and forth to the 38th parallel."

The men said all Chinese activities were carried on at night. The Reds and their prisoners lay hidden in their holes all day.

ALLIES MOVE TO HOLD RED CHINA WITH EMBARGO

By DEWITT MACKENZIE (AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

General Douglas MacArthur continues to stick to his guns in warning that the Korean war may explode into another world conflict unless Red China is beaten into surrender.

He maintains that victory could be achieved by all-out air attacks, a naval blockade and the use of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist army on Formosa against neighboring Red China. Chiang has a half million or more troops.

The Washington administration has rejected these proposals. The majority of the United Nations also have been viewing dimly any extension of the hostilities as likely to precipitate another general conflagration. They would be willing to make a negotiated peace when the Reds have been evicted from South Korea.

MacArthur's Answer One of the great fears of those opposed to the MacArthur plan has been that it might result in America and her Allies becoming involved in a war on the Chinese mainland. Such a development, they hold, might easily result in the United States being bled white, both militarily and economically, while Russia was sitting on the side-line and conserving her strength in preparation for war in Western Europe.

MacArthur has answered that by making plain that he has had no thought of sending American troops into China. In fact he has characterized any such move as insane. It is the Chinese Nationalist foot-soldiers whom he would move onto the continent.

The consensus of military experts seems to be that the best which could be expected, if the war should continue along present lines, would be a stalemate after a long war. And MacArthur declares that this "dreary conflict" is costing too much in American blood.

Plenty of Proof As proof of this appraisal the general estimates battle casualties in Korea at 1,000,000 for both sides, with losses for the Allies about 250,000. He says American casualties have passed 65,000. Korean civilian losses have been many times the military casualties.

General MacArthur doesn't think much of Red China's ability to fight a major war and believes that it wouldn't last long. He holds that Russia wouldn't be able to help much. Moreover he declares that Red China is "only a couple jumps ahead of starvation at any time" and lacks the industrial base for modern war.

So far as China's impoverishment is concerned, there can be no argument on that score, as I can testify from personal observation on the ground. And certainly the Soviet Union would face grave difficulties in trying to give material support to her big satellite.

For one thing, the major part of the Soviet industries are in the west—far removed from China. More to the point, Moscow isn't likely to weaken the position of Western Russia and thus render her vulnerable in event of a European war.

However, these arguments certainly wouldn't warrant any action which would involve the United States in a major war with China. Still, moves are being made to hold the Chinese in leash.

The United States has made an urgent appeal to the United Nations for an embargo by all members on shipments of war materials to Red China. This is under consideration by the peace organization.

From Tokyo, too, comes word that Allied airmen will be sent to bomb Manchurian bases if the Chinese Reds employ great air power against U.N. ground forces in Korea.

Thus out of the MacArthur dismissal and subsequent inquiries may grow developments which will shorten the dangerous and costly Korean conflict. That in turn will buttress the position of the Western Allies in Europe.

Washington, May 5 (AP)—The disputed India grain bill appears to have been indefinitely pigeon-holed by the House.

Unwilling to risk defeat at the hands of irate members, leaders today let it be known they have no plans to call it up next week as previously announced.

This was the second delay in a week to put to a test the administration's proposal for making 2,000,000 tons of wheat and other food grains available to India for famine relief.

stores, its regional and national chain stores, department stores and supermarkets depend on daily truck deliveries for their merchandise. Direct-to-the-home delivery, a vital part of our distribution system, would be impossible without trucks.

"It doesn't take much reflection to realize that the merchandise in our stores and homes today would be neither reasonably priced nor fresh if trucks didn't carry the goods. More than 4,000 towns in Pennsylvania depend wholly, and many more in all but minor respects, upon trucks for commercial transportation. Trucks are on the roads and streets today because American business, and its customers, demand their presence. There are no more trucks on the road than are necessary to meet the requirements of mass distribution."
